On tour : Behind the scene

In this tour you will see a variety of schools and locations of Kentalis in the field of multiple communication challenges, speech and language disorders and deafblindness.

Optional:

Join the tour: Teaching Deaf Learners

In this tour you will travel to a selection of our Schools for the deaf who open their doors for you and where our colleagues will welcome you. This tour is part of the conference Teaching Deaf Learners which you can book separately, or in combination with the conference and will depart from Haarlem in the West of the Netherlands. Participants will be travelling with a Kentalis bus. A fee of € 75,- will be charged to cover the costs.

Thursday and Friday, November 7-8

We strongly recommend our conference Teaching Deaf Learners

How can deaf and hard-of-hearing students best be taught given their individual strengths and needs? This question is at the core of the third edition of this inspiring conference.

The 3rd international conference on Teaching Deaf Learners (TDL2019) will take place in Haarlem. This conference is organized by Harry Knoors and Marc Marschark and their colleagues on behalf of Royal Dutch Kentalis and the National Technical Institute for the Deaf (USA). The conference is supported by Oxford University Press.

Attended by almost 300 visitors from over 30 countries, the conferences in 2014 and 2017 were a huge success.

Can we welcome you again in 2019?
